How Hobson has Cheapened Himself and his Fame.

Washington Post: Circumstances, powerfully sided by the hysterical powerfully aided by the hysterical press and by maudin individuals, have tended to taske the war hero pitifully cheap. For some months past, every one returned from Cuba or even from a way station camp has been fauded as a miracle of valor and devotion. But it remained for Liquireant Hobson to show us how very cheap and tawdry heroism can be made. It is true that Hobson really did something worthy of similaritom and applause. When the war ended, last July, he occupied a position which, if he had fortified it with modesty and common sense, would have become historic, which would have embellished and illuminated the chronicles of human heroism. The truth is, however, that Hobson seems to be devold of either of the qualities we have named, and that he has made himself a laughing block for the couptry and a humiliation for his corps. The craxy adulation of the multitude, the tempestuous howlings of pinchbeck mewspapers—these unwholesome forces have distributed—if they have not destroyed—his mental equilibrium, and he is to-day a cause of sorrow to the naval service and of contemptuous merriment to the country at large. He presents the spectacle of a young man of originally fine character and promising attainments who has been transformed into a mournful mountebank and popiliage by a silly oniery acting on an element of immeasurable conceit. To show that we are not alone in this estimate of the diminished Hobson, we quote from the comments by the Chicago papers on his recent performances in that city—comments which by a curious coincidence, appeared elimbfancously with the Poat's on vesterdage: CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—The mushy exhibition at the auditorium last night, wherein Lieutenant Hobson's kissed 163 women in thitypress and by maudlin individuals, have

The Journal says: "The Hobson exhibition was leathsome. It is sad that a man of his excellent courage should lend himself to a public display of female hysteria."

female hysteria."

The Evening Post says: "Hobson is doing, and has been doing, all that is possible for one man to do to cheapen himself and cheapen his exploit at Santiago. Last night he gave a conspicuously glittering delimention of premeditated insanity. We congratulate the young ladies of the Philippines on the great treat that is in store for them, for we are sure that the young herowill make no invidious distinctions. We were about to say that Mr. Hobson will takke anything that wears skirts, but we happen to recall that the young ladies of the Philippines do not wear skirts."

These are reported to the New York

These are reported to the New York World of Tuesday by its special correspondent in that city, and they show with very curious significance how the press throughout the country is awakening to Hobson's feebleness and vanity.

Perhaps it is not necessary to refer at this time to Hobson's still greater absurdities in Kansas City, on Monday evening. He has aiready done enough to warrant—nay! to urge—the navy department in any effectual means for his suppression. Enough to say that the ression. Enough to say that the country is nausaited and exas-ied, and that Hobson's retrement public observation will be the popular thing the authorities possibly contribe. He bores the could possibly contrive. He bores the American people. Everybody, in or out of the service, would be glad to forget him for the next few years.

Bound up in Household Cares.
Washington Star: One day during that period in the feud history of the mountains of West. Virginia when for several years the blood of the mountaineers circulated freely over the face of the earth, I was taking dinner at the house of one of the families that was in the thick of the muss and had lost a number of its men folk. However, it was not according to the best form of mountain society to mention those things, and I talked about something else. A woman in a black alpaca yown was the presiding genius of the table and I did my talking to her. That she had lost two husbands I was sure, but I had understood she had married a third and had hopes of keeping him. "Don't you find it rather lonesome out here at times?" I inquired, for it really was a house in the midst of everlasting solitude, as far as peighbors Bound up in Household Cares lasting solltude, as far as neighbors

I was just a little disconcerted by this unexpected revelation of her domestic deprivation, but I hastened to set myself straight.

"Well," I said consolingly, "you must do the best you can under the circumstances and keep your mind engaged as much as possible.

It was lame, of course, but a man can't always be at his best.

"I reckon so," she responded cheerfully enough, "but I don't worry. What with buryin' husbands and makin black dresses 'tween times, I'm so busy I couldn't go to see neighbors of they wus thicker'n black-birds. Won't you have some more uv the greens?"

Senate Committee Completes the Revision of the Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The senate committee on foreign relations to-day concluded its revision of the bill providing a territorial sovernment for Hawail, and Senator Culiom reported the changes to the senate. There were numerous changes, the most important being as follows:

The section defining citizenship was amended by striking out the word "white" and also the explicit reference to Portuguese and left to read as follows: "That all persons who were citizens of the republic of Hawaii on August 12, 1308, are hereby declared to be citizens of the United States."

The request of one-fifth of the members of the territorial house of representatives is made sufficient to demand the ages and noes, the original requirement being one-third.

The provision is regard to the qualifications of territorial senators is changed so as to require that the senator shall be a male citizen. 30 years of age, that he shall have resided in the Hawaiian islands not less than three years and that he "shall be qualified to vote for senators," the explicit property qualification being stricken out. A like changes to yote for representatives.

Section 43 allowing one house of the legislature to legislate after the other has adjourned was stricken out, as was also the provision requirings that each bill should receive the written approval of three members before being introduced. The provision authorising the territorial supreme court to pass upon the qualifications of nembers of the legislature was not changed and it was left as recommended by the commission.

The Governor is required to send his estimates for appropriations to the legislature as a whole and not to the senate alone, as originally required.

The following restriction on the issuance of bonds is inserted:

"Nor shall any bond or other instrument of any indebtedness be issued unless made redeemable in not more than five years and payable in not more than fitteen years from the date of issue thereof."

The provision that no retroactive law may be enacted is stricken out.

In the qualifications for voters for territorial representatives, the word understandingle, in the educational qualification is stricken out, requiring simply that they shall "read, write and speak the English or Hawalian language." No change is made in the qualifications for voters for senators. The provision in regard to the registration of Hawalian vessels was changed to read as follows: "That all vessels carrying Hawalian registers on the 12th of August, 1898, shall be entitled to be registered as American vessels, with the benefits and privileges appertaining thereto."

The market continued to-day its upward movement on a tremendous volume of business, second only to the record made one day last week. London traded both ways, her purchases and sales being larger than for a long time. On balance it is estimated that over 15,000 shares were taken for London account. Denver & Rio Grande preferred was a favorite in both markets on the prediction of a 3 per cent dividend, which later materialized. Union Parific issues were absorbed on rising prices for both foreign and domestic accounts. A pool apparently connected with prominent banking interests seemed in control of this stock in the local trading. There were no new developments in the property except that a good showing was forecasted for the November statement, to be presently insued, and the continued association of property with the Alton deal, in which other roads as well are supposed to be interested. Realizing sales by certain large interests, although causing a reactionary movement early in the day seemed to have been well taken, considering their volume. Then evidence of scale buying and conspicuous purchases by two powerful interests resulted in an almost buydent tone before noon. There was covering of shorts, who have expected a reaction, which failed to appear in any extent thus far because of the large absorption of securities by the public. There was pronounced strength in the grangers, Rock Island crossing ill by a handsome fraction, while St. Paul ruled around 115 and Quincy 123. The movement in these and other standard dividend paying stocks had a healthful influence elsewhere; stantial improvement.
